

Selwyn College Music Society

presents

Alone

by

Jacob Head

A Recital of Music for Unaccompanied
Double Bass by Living Composers

Sunday 28th January | 8.30pm

Selwyn College Hall

Jacob Head has been failing to play the double bass for the last twelve years. After the auspicious start of failing Grade 1 twice, he has gone on to play in an assortment of youth and amateur orchestras and has learnt with David Heyes at the Trinity College and Royal Academy Junior Departments. Having always been more attracted to noise than sound, playing true modern music in Cambridge has been a long-held ambition that will hopefully be realised tonight.

Despite its unusual shape, the instrument receiving the abuse tonight is a modern Hungarian bass, probably built in 2004.

Programme

Stefan Schafer	sul A, "One is not always the person one wishes to be"
Bertram Turetzky	Six Haiku Settings
Teppo Hauta-Aho	Erkon Elegia
	Free improvisation
Edward Nesbit	Ad Infinitum
Joelle Leandre	Taxi
Teppo Hauta-Aho	Mikkos Menuet

Bertram Turetzky — Six Haiku Settings

- 1) A tree frog softly begins to trill as raindrops spatter the new leaves.

- 2) A leaf is falling
Alas, alas
Another and another falls-

- 3) So cold are the waves
The rocking gull
Can scarcely fold itself to sleep

- 4) When a nightingale sang out,
The sparrow flew off to a further tree.

- 5) In whatever beholding
All is but dew.

- 6) Ballet, in the air
Twin butterflies
Until... They meet! They mate!

Forthcoming Concerts

Organ Recital – Andrew Lumsden

Andrew Lumsden – Director of Music at Winchester Cathedral – gives a recital in the College Chapel. As a soloist, Andrew has appeared with the LPO at the Royal Festival Hall, the ECO at the Barbican, and the CBSO in Symphony Hall. He frequently tours abroad; recital venues have included such diverse places as Bergen, San Francisco, Harare and Sydney.

Sunday 4th February | 8.30pm | Selwyn College Chapel

Third Years' Recital

An informal recital given by students about to graduate from Selwyn.

Sunday 18th February | 8.30pm | Selwyn College Hall

Why not become a member of SCMS?

Membership costs only £15 per year for fellows and external members, and entitles you to free entry to almost all SCMS concerts. If you're a student, you can become a member for the special price of £10 per year or £25 for three years.

For more information on becoming a member please contact the Membership Secretary, Helen Doyle (hrd28@cam.ac.uk).

<< www.srcf.ucam.org/scms >>